

This is the window that will be displayed when the application is launched

A window titled "Please enter the password" with a text input field labeled "Password", a "Cancel" button, and a blue "OK" button.

When the OK button is clicked or enter is pressed, the application will check that the password entered matches the one on file.

After the password has been verified, the main menu window will be presented to the user. Here they will be able to select a number of options.
